LAST GUN FIRED IN FEDERAL CAMPAIGN

Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. and Capt. Whittaker Speak on Behalf of N.-L.-C. Candidate

As explained by the chairman, Mr. J. F. Burne, Mr. J. A. MacKelvie was unable, through pressure of other engagements, to carry out his intention of speaking in Kelowna on Saturday evening, and his cause was upheld at the meeting in the Morrison Hall by Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. and Capt. Whittaker, both of Vancouver. The hall was filled much beyond its capacity with a large audience, including many ladies and a strong contingent of veterans. The latter made their presence felt by vigorous heckling of the speakers, especially Capt. Whittaker, whose presence in opposition to his comrade of the G. W. V. A., Col. Edgett, was evidently resented keenly by a number of the men. As the election is now a thing of the past, a full account of the proceedings is scarcely called for, and our report includes merely the chief points of interest.

Mr. Stevens, who was the first speaker, did not live up to his reputation for platform work. He repeated at considerable length and somewhat to the wearying of his audience much of what had been said by the Premier and by himself on the occasion of Mr. Meighen's visit to Kelowna. He devoted considerable time to a lengthy explanation of why the by-election in Yale was held at this particular time, and defended Mr. MacKelvie against the charge of being a machine candidate, holding that he was no more such than Col. Edgett. As for his own presence in the campaign, he said he had come into the riding for two reasons—to help an old friend whom he admired and loved, and to meet many old friends whom he had known for twenty-seven years. His advent had been criticized, but it was not costing the country or Mr. MacKelvie one cent. He also defended the Premier against charges of interfering unduly in this by-election. Mr. Meighen had been charged by the Opposition with not knowing the country, yet the first time he travelled through the West, he was condemned for making the trip. He paid a high tribute to the Prime Minister, whom he termed the cleverest man in the House of Commons, and there was no reason why the citizens should be ashamed of him.

Taking up political charges made during the campaign, Mr. Stevens proceeded to justify Sir J. W. Flavelle by pointing out that the government allowed the meat packers to retain only 7 per cent profit in full, between that and 15 per cent the government took half, and above 15 per cent the government took all. This caused considerable interruption by members of the audience, one speaker asserting that the Swiss operated on a margin of one per cent, in reply to which Mr. Stevens explained the difference between profit on capital invested and profit on turnover.

The C. N. R. deal came next. It was a fact, said Mr. Stevens, that a loan of $45,000,000 had been made to the Canadian Northern, but in return, through the agency of Mr. Meighen, who was in charge of the transaction, a blanket mortgage was obtained over the whole system and over $23,000,000 worth of private assets of MacKenzie & Mann. If Canada had not financed the railway at that time, it would have come to smash, together with the second largest bank in the Dominion, with disastrous results to the credit of the country in the early stages of the war, and such could not be allowed. A year or so later, when the Canadian Northern failed to pay interest on the mortgage, the government foreclosed and took over the system.

Answering the statement that the government should resign because it had increased the public debt from $336,000,000 in 1914 to $2,200,000,000 in 1920, the speaker said the leader of the Opposition was not responsible in any sense for this increase because he was in the United States during the war, drawing a large salary from Rockefeller, and the only part he took in connection with the war debt was to stump the country against conscription. The government accepted responsibility for the debt; repudiation could not be considered. As to allegations that money had not been properly spent, Mr. Stevens said that during the first three sessions of the present parliament not one word of accusation had been uttered by the leader of the Opposition or his followers. (Voice: "That is why independent men are wanted.") No man had the right to make charges of dishonesty without bringing the proofs to sustain them, otherwise he was not worthy of citizenship. During the last session Mr. Sinclair, of Guysborough, N. S., had stated that $120,000,000 had gone astray. A committee was appointed to go into the matter and witnesses were summoned. It was found that the $120,000,000 was pay and allowances to Canadian troops in France paid by the British government, for the reason that during the war it was unsafe to ship valuable documents across the Atlantic owing to submarines.

RUTLAND

Mr. Clarence Duncan returned last Saturday from a short business trip to the Peace River district.

A meeting of the Community Church committee was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denis on Thursday evening last. Mr. E. T. Money was elected chairman, and Mr. A. W. Gray secretary, of the committee. Ways and means of overcoming the many obstacles and difficulties likely to be met with were discussed. At the next meeting an attempt will be made to draw up a church constitution and creed, to be submitted to the various churches concerned, for their approval.

The Women's Institute held its regular meeting on Thursday last, when an interesting paper on B. C. Women's Institute work was read by Mrs. Wallace, and followed by a discussion as to the desirability of continuing work in this organization, or of joining with the United Farm Women. A decided majority of votes favored the former course. It was also decided to entertain the school children with games and refreshments on the afternoon of Dec. 16.

Interest in the coming provincial election is growing daily. During the last week meetings have been held by both Mr. J. W. Jones, M.L.A., and Mr. L. V. Rogers. Needless to say the irrigation question was one that received much attention.

The meeting in the school house on Friday last, in the interests of Col. C. E. Edgett was fairly well attended, but, judging by the way the voting went, the speakers failed to move the stony hearts of their hearers to any great extent. A commendable innovation to political meetings was the rendering of excellent solos and part songs by veterans.

Rutland has had a little election of her own this last week, when voting took place for the election of trustees for the newly organized Water District. Messrs. C. H. Bond, E. M. Caruthers, W. R. Reed, S. Workman and E. Mugford were five trustees elected.

The Young People's Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday School met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Money on Tuesday evening, for a social time and to discuss the part to be taken by the class in the Christmas entertainment which is to be held on Thursday, Dec. 23.

Mr. E. Mugford has been busy during the past week partitioning off a portion of the north basement of the school, to be fitted up as a domestic science room.

Delbert and Wesley Barber left last week-end on one of their periodic journeys to the "jazzy little burg" of Vancouver.

Mrs. G. Bull arrived last week from Calgary to join her husband, who has purchased Mr. E. T. Money's orchard on the flats. Accompanying her were her son-in-law and her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bullard. The family took up their residence on the property last Friday.

OKANAGAN MISSION

Church services—The usual Sunday School service will be held on Sunday next at 10 a.m. Matins will be at 11 a.m., followed by Communion service. Canon Thompson has announced that arrangements had been made for the church bell to be rung in future at 10:30 a.m. for five minutes, also at five minutes to eleven before all morning services.

Many people went hunting last week and we are told that two deer were brought back.

Six Kelownians are out with a bridge challenge versus the Mission. The match takes place at the home of Mr. Willis on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 2 o'clock.

It has been arranged to provide all the local children with a "school treat" which will take place just before Christmas. After tea, games will be played, and all local children will be invited, and all local children will be invited, and all local children will be invited. A list has been placed in the store and any contributions of cakes, fruit, Christmas crackers, or money would be most acceptable. A chance like this only occurs once a year, so let us see if we can all think of the little ones and help them to thoroughly enjoy themselves. People with gifts who are unable to deliver them kindly place a note in Box 33, and they will be called for.

We regret to hear that Mr. F. Thorneloe is laid up with an injury to his knee.

Monday last there was indeed a busy day. Everybody was voting. No, we are wrong. Everybody was not voting. Less than two-thirds of the total number of people at the Mission on the Voters' List exercised the franchise. Although many canvassers had been out during the previous fortnight the total poll here was certainly not representative of Okanagan Mission. Why? Laxness, too busy and that well-known local malady, Missionitis. And then we have been told upon several occasions lately that "men are not reliable, cannot be depended upon." We have no patience with those members of any civilized community who although fully qualified in every way to vote, failed to do so. Those who did not vote will please read the above note as applicable to supporters of either candidate.

MR. ROGERS PRESENTS THE GOVERNMENT CASE

RUTLAND AUDIENCE HEARS ABLE FLEA BY THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Before a sympathetic and appreciative audience of nearly one hundred and fifty people, including a number of ladies, in the Rutland School on Monday night, Mr. L. V. Rogers made an able presentation of the case for support of the Oliver government and incidentally for his choice as member for South Okanagan. As the meeting was the only one of the series held this week which this paper could cover, as full a report as possible is given.

Mr. J. F. Guest acted as chairman, and was accompanied to the platform by Mr. Rogers and Mayor Sutherland. In introducing the visitors, Mr. Guest said they were the same two speakers that had attended a similar gathering four years ago.

Mayor Sutherland made a disavowal of being much of a politician by saying the little address he gave at Rutland four years ago was the first political speech he had made in his life and he had not made one since, and he rather startled the audience by adding that he was not present to boost any candidate. Frankly, it was a matter of indifference to him personally which of the candidates was elected, but the policies of the parties they represented formed a matter of great concern to him. It was not a matter of the names Liberal or Conservative, it was a matter of principles. At the same time, he was not one of those who dissociated themselves from parties. He thought it was natural to associate with a political party, but at times, just as people found it necessary to sever their association with a place for important reasons such as health and so on, so it might become necessary at times to cease their association with their old political party. It was a great pity that so many great and essential things, great underlying principles, were often left untouched for trivial details. He gave credit, in this regard, to Premier Meighen, in his Kelowna speech for saying nothing about the faults of the other two parties but dwelling on one thing, that his government stood for a fair amount of protection on fruit to protect the growers already here and to bring others into the country. He was right. It was the big things that counted, and the speaker would therefore take up only two of the most important matters.

Mr. Sutherland then attacked the policy of aiding construction of the P. G. E. and C. N. R., embarked upon by the McBride and Bowser administrations. He expressed opposition to any scheme of subsidizing the main line of any railway, which had to be built in any case; there might be some reason for aiding the construction of branches. When the C. N. R. went broke, the province had to pay the interest on the bonds guaranteed, and if the provincial funds could not meet the payments, it might have resulted in direct payment by farmers and others, as every one in the province was responsible. Fortunately, the Dominion took over the road. He took issue with the Oliver government for not letting the P. G. E. go when the Liberals took office instead of taking it over and trying to complete it. Bowser's proposal was to extend the railway to the boundaries of Alberta. It had not yet reached Fort George, and it would cost $32,000,000 to build from there to the Alberta boundary, on which the interest and sinking fund would come to $3,200,000 yearly. The present outlay on the P. G. E. was $2,500,000 per annum, and it was easy to see that the railway might absorb the greater part of the revenue of the province, and then there would be no money to spend on roads and bridges. The Canadian National Railways had run into debt $47,000,000 last year, but the lines were to get the assistance of a fleet of vessels to provide them with tonnage connections. The P. G. E., on the other hand, ran through a cattle country, with no such prospects of outside tonnage, and it could not earn enough to pay interest on its ties.

The other point of the Mayor's attack upon the Bowser policies was in regard to the handling of land, timber, oil and other natural resources, which, he claimed the Bowser administration had dissipated by reckless alienation to speculators. The present government had got back much of the land by taxing it as wild land, and they had placed a reserve on the oil fields in the Peace River country, in which they might have an asset that would pay off the whole debt of the province. Yet Mr. Bowser had gone into hysterics the other day because these oil lands were not open to the public, meaning speculators. His was the same old policy of dissipation of the natural resources. As against this, the policy of the Oliver government was the conservation of these resources and development of them, and the speaker predicted that hydro-electric development would likely follow so that in time the farmers would be able to enjoy the use of electric light and power.

He compared the respective leaders to good and bad managers, and it was up to the electorate on Dec. 1 to select managers who would lead the country to prosperity. He urged the people to forget the small things, the campaign matter that was used to cloud the great issues, and to decide on which policy would bring about the uplifting of the province as a whole or would lead to ruin. (Applause.)

Mr. Rogers, who was cordially received, opened by referring to the remarkable interest taken in politics with two campaigns running simultaneously. An outstanding feature of the provincial campaign was the absence of charges of graft by the Opposition against the administration of the province for the past four years. He was not going to say that the government made no mistakes, as they could not be perfect, but it was not the small things upon which the electors would pass judgment on Dec. 1, but the broad policy of building up the province and making it the envy of the rest of Canada. It was not a personal contest between J. W. Jones and himself; it was whether we shall have John Oliver or Bowser as our leader. Hence he was not going to indulge in personalities or mud-slinging.

Taking up the financial position of the province when the Liberals achieved power at the end of 1916, Mr. Rogers went over figures already familiar to our readers through the speech here of Premier Oliver. The situation required strong measures, and it was decided that current expenditure must be kept within current revenue, hence it was necessary to raise the taxes, and when a second tax notice was sent out in 1917 language was used that certainly was not learned in Sunday School. Those taxes, together with personal property, income and other taxes, all went to pay interest and losses on operation of the P. G. E. Such was the difficulty of financing, due to such legacies left by the old government. The Opposition objected to the doubling of the taxes, and said that the government should do as they had done and borrow, but the government would not do so, as it was not good policy at that time, when money could not be obtained for less than 7 per cent. But after the Armistice, the result of adhering to the same financial policy was that the government was able to borrow at a rate of 5.56, and since then on even more favorable terms, the last loan being floated at a price of 103 for $100 bonds, making an interest rate of virtually 4.34 per cent. The people who bought these bonds stated that B. C. bonds were sought after in the United States more than any other Canadian issues. So that, since 1917, we had been able to re-establish our credit.

As to the accusations of extravagance brought by the Opposition, of course, said Mr. Rogers sarcastically, it was wonderful that expenditure had mounted when the prices of everything had gone down so much. The simple reason why the expenditure had climbed so much was because the dollar had nothing like the same purchasing power now as it had in 1915. When the Opposition raised an outcry over the government's expenditure of $13,000,000 they did not tell of the Bowser government spending $15,000,000 in 1912-13, when the dollar would buy far more. The objects for which the present administration borrowed were such sound propositions as land settlement, assistance to industries, better housing and irrigation systems.

Mr. Rogers did not devote much

YALE IS RETAINED FOR THE GOVERNMENT

MacKelvie Defeats Edgett by a Comparatively Small Majority

Suffering the loss of a seat in East Elgin to the Farmers party on Monday, the Meighen government managed to retain possession of Yale but by a majority insignificant in comparison with the margin of 893 in 1908 and 1,889 in 1911. The government sent their heavy artillery into the constituency, including the Premier himself, Hon. J. A. Calder, Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. and others, and to oppose their fire, Col. C. E. Edgett, D.S.O., the Soldier-Farmer candidate had no help other than local and generally unpracticed oratory. The Colonel waged a splendid fight and gave the government a bad scare. Analysis of the figures show that Mr. MacKelvie would have been badly beaten but for the heavy vote in his favor in South Okanagan. His big majority in his home town was more than offset by the adverse majorities in Armstrong and Enderby and the farming districts between Armstrong and Salmon Arm.

With the exception of Vernon, all the incorporated towns in the Okanagan gave a majority for Edgett, and a distinct line of cleavage is shown between the fruit growing districts, which went strongly for MacKelvie, and the purely farming regions where fruit takes a secondary place or is not grown, which went just as strongly for Edgett. This plainly shows the effect of the determined attack made on Col. Edgett on the tariff question, despite his plank in favor of protection for the fruit industry. It also shows that the United Farmers in the northern and southern portions of Yale were generally loyal to their candidate, while in the central portion they adhered to their former party affiliations.

It is food for consolation to the defeated side to know that in Mr. J. A. MacKelvie, M.P.-elect, the district will have the strongest, most efficient and most loyal representative that the National Liberal and Conservative party could select from its ranks.

The Kelowna poll was held in the Morrison Hall, in which five booths were provided. The turnout of voters was disappointing, 1,010 voting as against 1,179 on the liquor plebiscite, and this indifference extended all over the electoral district, the total vote polled being about 9,700 out of a total of nearly 15,000.

ACTION TAKEN FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY

Committee Appointed by Board of Trade to Take Preliminary Steps

There was a very slim attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening, evidently due to the surfeit of political meetings during the past week causing many of the members to prefer the comfort of their own fireside. In the absence of the President, on the political warpath, the Vice-President, Mr. Grote Stirling, occupied the chair, and Mr. R. Whillis performed the duties of secretary for Mr. N. D. McTavish, who was unable to attend owing to the regrettable illness of his wife.

A letter was read from the City Clerk, stating that the Council considered that it was too late to take any action this year to provide wharfage accommodation for the boats of settlers along the lake, as requested by the Board.

Mr. D. B. Hanna, President of the C. N. R., wired under date of Oct. 23 in reply to the invitation of the Board to visit Kelowna, that he had not forgotten his promise to come here but had been called east by important engagements. However, he would redeem his promise before long.

Referring to the C. N. R., the chairman said he had been informed by Major Workman, of the engineering staff, that all grading contracts would be finished about Dec. 12.

Mr. C. H. Jackson called attention to the fact that there was enough steel to lay 25 miles of track lying unused at The Pas, Man., and it might be possible to divert these rails for use on the C. N. R. to Kelowna.

A letter from Mr. T. Edward Clark, private secretary to Mr. Theo. Fellner, Director-General of Imperial Trade Propaganda, spoke in very complimentary terms of the booklet sent him by the Board, which he had sent on for use by the head office in Great Britain, and expressed his desire to come to Kelowna to live, should he find it possible to do so.

A copy of the Board of Trade Amendment Act, 1920, was received from the Secretary of State at Ottawa, embodying certain requirements as to an annual report on the activities of the Board.

The General Agent for the Canadian National Railways wrote stating that, having learned that Kelowna was in need of a first-class tourist hotel, he had written to a Mr. Dunkerley, of Pennsylvania, who was looking for such an opening. The secretary reported that a telegram, followed by a long letter, had been sent by the Publicity Committee to Mr. Dunkerley, but not sufficient time had elapsed for a reply.

The Penticton Board of Trade sent a request for support to their requests for improvement of the mail service on the K. V. R. between Penticton and the Coast, so as to eliminate the present delay to mail at Agassiz and, if possible, to secure routing of registered mail by the K. V. R. instead of the Sicamous route.

After discussion of the subject, it was decided to give the hearty support of the Board to the Penticton proposals, and, on the suggestion of Mr. R. B. Kerr, to write also to the Postmaster-General asking for enquiry into the present unsatisfactory mail service between Kelowna and Victoria.

A letter from the Agent-General for B. C. in London, asking for a further supply of publications stating the advantages of the Kelowna district, was referred to the Publicity and Finance Committees.

New business being next in order, Mr. Denison enquired whether anything had been learned from Premier Meighen on his recent visit to Kelowna as to the erection of the federal building so long promised.

Mr. Pitcairn said he understood the matter had been left in the hands of the Conservative Association, and some jocular discussion ensued amongst the members as to the existence of such a body in federal politics. It was finally decided that the secretary should interview Mr. Wilkinson, secretary of the National Liberal and Conservative Association, to ascertain if any information was available on the subject.

Mr. DuMoulin suggested that the Ratepayers' Association should also be asked to take up the same matter, and this was agreed to, with the addition of a suggestion by Mr. Denison that the Ratepayers' Association be also asked to take up the delay in erecting a provincial court house with the candidates for the Legislature.

On the motion of Messrs. DuMoulin and Denison, it was decided to grant the use of the Board of Trade hall to the Ladies Hospital Aid for their monthly meeting and also to the Girls' Aid for their meeting, provided that the hall shall be reserved for the meeting of the Board on the third Tuesday of each month and for any other night on which it may be required for other meetings, the ladies to provide their own fuel and do the janitor work.

Mr. C. W. Lees said there was a certain institution, besides the court house and federal building, which was very desirable, and he believed the Board should take the initial steps to secure it, hence he moved the following resolution: That the Board of Trade appoint a small committee to act as a nucleus of a larger committee to make a thorough canvass of the local situation looking to the line with the rest of Dominion in 1903 and adopted the nomenclature in provincial politics of the two great federal parties, many people raised an unheeded protest because they did not wish to be divorced from associates who agreed with them on provincial policy but differed on Dominion issues. Previous to 1903, the provincial cabinets contained a mixture of Liberals and Conservatives as far as federal parties were concerned, and elections were run solely on provincial issues. The change was supposed to bring about greater strength of government, preventing members under a strict party alignment from switching over from Government to Opposition and vice versa, as frequently was the case. Granting that there might be some slight improvement in this respect, those who were opposed to the introduction of federal party lines dreaded that the latter would govern elections, which would be fought no longer purely upon British Columbia matters but with the influence of federal political ties affecting men's actions and judgment. And the passage of years has seemed in a measure to justify their fears.

There are many men in British Columbia who are satisfied that the Olivier administration has given good government and who would like to aid in securing its return to power not only by using their ballots but also by active work, but at the same time, in federal affairs these men believe in a protective tariff and still cherish resentment of the attitude of the federal Liberal party in opposing conscription when the Empire was in dire need of men and offering but a thin human barrier between the Hun and the Channel ports. Such men do not want to be dubbed Liberal; the name to them brings back memories of factious opposition to measures dictated only by stern necessity. Yet, if they support the Olivier government they are classed as Liberals, and if they attend meetings of Liberal organizations they may be modified to find they tacitly subscribe to the election of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King as Honorary President.

Probably the converse does not apply in the same degree, as men opposed to the Olivier government are more likely to be Conservatives in Dominion affairs than followers of Mackenzie King, but Conservative politicians have recognized the need of providing for variations of thought in provincial matters, and locally the Conservative Association is quite a separate affair from the National Liberal and Conservative Association, organized to deal with federal politics. Presumably, they have no objection to a Liberal of the N.-L.-C.
type allying himself with his original party in provincial affairs, if he chooses to do so, but there is not the same elasticity on the Liberal side.

It was a reflection upon the scope of the English vocabulary when Richard McBride decided, in 1903, that the respective parties in provincial politics must be dubbed Liberal and Conservative. Surely he had an ample range from which to choose without confounding provincial with Dominion political designations.
"Moderates" and "Progressives" would have been quite adequate distinctions and would have followed the mode adopted by the London County Council, which purposely sought to avoid duplication in local issues of the names of parliamentary party divisions, and these are but two names out of many that are in use throughout the Empire.

Multiplication of groups in the various provincial legislatures may bring about fresh alignments and consequently a reversion to provincial party names, giving greater scope of thought and action to men who do not want to be provincial Liberals but Dominion Conservatives and vice versa, and preserving provincial politics from the undesirable intrusion of federal influence and issues.

ACTION TAKEN FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY

establishment of a public library in Kelowna; that this committee be given power to ask persons not members of the Board of Trade to sit with it; and that this committee be asked to bring in a full report at a future meeting of the Board, embodying definite recommendations for the establishment of a library here.

Speaking in support of the resolution, Mr. Lees expressed the belief that it would not be difficult to devise ways and means of running a library, and co-operation might be sought of such bodies as the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, by whom a reading-room for boys had been opened.

Mr. Denison in seconding spoke of the great need of such an institution and the resolution carried unanimously.

Messrs. J. Ball, C. W. Lees and R.
B. Kerr were selected as members of the committee.

Mr. Denison regretted the small attendance and urged that means be taken to stimulate the interest of members in the work of the Board.

Mr. DuMoulin recalled that a year or two ago he had initiated a scheme to have papers read by members at the meetings, with subsequent discussion by those present. A number of very interesting meetings resulted.

Mr. J. McMillan thought better attendance would be produced if the business to come before the meetings was stated on the postcard notices to members.

Adopting a suggestion of Mr. Kerr it was decided to invite Mr. Heron to address the Board on his trip to Europe.

Replying to an inquiry by Mr. Pitcairn as to the present condition of the Ellison cut-off road, Mr. Stirling stated that considerable grading work had been done at the north end of the road, and the result was that it acted as a trap for the unwary, as people who did not know of the unfinished condition of the road started down it and had difficulty in turning their cars round when they came to the creek, over which there was no bridge, and there was also a morass on each side of it. Some work had been done on the south end of the road, but nothing was being done on it at present, and no definite information had been given out as to its completion.

Passing to another subject, Mr.
Stirling said a matter of much importance to the district, of which however, little notice had been taken was the issue of letters patent to two water municipalities, which had been brought about largely through the wise efforts of Mr. Cleveland, the Water Comptroller. Water matters in the Black Mountain and East Kelowna districts had been in bad shape for years, but through the work of Mr. Cleveland, satisfactory results were being brought about, and the water systems were being acquired by the water users through Boards of Trustees elected by them. The users of water had at last seen the wisdom of combining to own the systems, and ownership by companies was coming to an end, which was a notable step forward in the progress of irrigation. The money to purchase the systems was being provided by loan from the Conservation Fund, and the security would be the land comprised within the districts concerned.

Replying to a query by Mr. Jackson as to whether all the land in the district was to be covered by this irrigation policy, Mr. Stirling said much land was covered by records for which, however, there was not enough water, and some of the licences might have to go by the board.
A strong point made by the Water Comptroller was that all licenses within water municipalities should be transferred by the owners to the municipalities. Under extensions projected of the existing systems, a considerable amount of land might be brought under water.

Mr. Jackson thought something should be done by the Board to call the attention of the C. N. R. to the necessity of making arrangements for a supply of ties in view of the laying of steel next year. Nothing seemed to have been done locally in this respect. Progress of the work seemed very slow, and would not go ahead unless the C. N. R. was got after.

No further matters coming up for discussion, the meeting adjourned at 9:30.

It was mentioned during the proceedings that the next meeting is that at which nominations may be received for the officers for 1921, and the hope was expressed that there may be a representative attendance.

"EXPERIENCE" MAKES A UNIVERSAL APPEALWhy All Classes Are Attracted by
One of the Most Unusual of Modern Plays

The singular feature concerning
"Experience," the modern morality drama which F. Ray Comstock and Morris Grell will present at the Empress Theatre on one night only Thursday, Dec. 2, is the fact that it has an appeal for every one. It is difficult to think of any play which reaches out so generally, and draws into the sphere of its attraction and influence young, old, rich, poor, and those one meets in daily life.

Why is this?
Because George V. Hobart, the author of "Experience," with the inspiration of genius hit upon a theme which instinctively arouses memories and hopes that are universal. The adventures of Youth upon the primrose path are both a warning and a reminiscence. To those who have passed their freshman days this scene is a vivid and sometimes painful reminder of the time they themselves wasted in the pursuit of pleasure. The sight of Wealth tossing away his gold on a drunken spree recalls the wild and adventurous days of spendthrift folly.

So it is with gambling, with the other experiences of Youth, and so on until the end of Mr. Hobart's wonderful allegory with its ever-present lesson. A preachment? Yes, but a wonderful presentation of facts

which are too often forgotten.

"Experience" is now in its seventh season. All the virtues and vices of mankind are personified in the ten brilliant scenes of the play. The characters are personifications of virtues and vices and their names describe them—Youth, the hero, Love, his sweetheart, Hope, his sister, and Ambition, Experience, Pleasure, Opportunity, Beauty, Deceit, Fashion, Slander, Snob, Blueblood, Travel, Style, Frivolity, Wealth and Intoxication.
The story is really fascinating and it is told in a way that holds the audience in rapt attention from the opening of the first episode until the close of the tenth and last.

"Experience" will be given here by the same company that played Calgary, Vancouver, Seattle, Winnipeg and all the large cities in Canada and the United States.

GLENMORE

Mr. and Mrs. Connor were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Loudoun last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Connor and family, who recently purchased the ranch belonging to Mr. D. Cunningham, moved into their new home this week.
Glenmore extends a hearty welcome to them.

Mr. Field, who has spent the past summer here with Mr. and Mrs. I.
K. Todd, recently returned to the Old Country.

Mr. Dick Stewart, who recently purchased 21 acres at South Kelowna, is busy preparing it for the planting of nursery stock in the spring.

In the breathing space between the Federal and Provincial elections, our sportsmen are again rallying forth to try their luck. Messrs. J. N. Cushing and C. D. Tuckey left on the quest on Wednesday.

Mrs. C. D. Tuckey is spending a few days in town visiting Mrs. Chas.
Hood.

Where are the trappers? Coyotes are getting very busy again. A bunch of five have been seen together in the north end of the valley and animals are disappearing.

From the large attendance at our Glenmore meetings, it looks as though we need a Community hall.

A meeting of water users was held on Monday, Nov. 22, in the school room, with a very full attendance.

Mr. G. Barrett, who was chosen chairman, brought before those present the object of the meeting.

Major MacDonald, of the Water and Lands Department, was present.
A good deal of discussion took place and points were brought forward which several present thought needed elucidation. Major MacDonald and Mr. Barrett enlightened them to the best of their ability.

It was resolved unanimously to form an Irrigation District, and the petition to the government for the "Glenmore Irrigation District" was then signed by those qualified.

After an accident has happened,
one hears continual talk of the speed at which cars travel in town. The 15-mile limit is by no means kept.
Watch cars cross Bernard Avenue from the Creamery or whiz round by the Lakeview. The corner of Bernard Avenue and Mission Road may be a good watch spot for catching outside folk, and making them swell depleted city coffers, but why not let town speeders assist in replenishing them?

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bennett returned on Tuesday morning from their trip south.

An agreement was accordingly arrived at that the British government should pay the troops, and in return the Canadian government made advances on behalf of Britain to pay for munitions and food purchased in Canada. The committee, composed of members of both sides of the House, brought in a unanimous report that not a dollar of this huge sum had been mis-spent.

To show the improbability of funds being misused by the government, Mr. Stevens gave particulars as to procedure on estimates, which had to pass under the fire of criticism in committee and in the House, and finally under the supervision of the Auditor-General, an official independent of Parliament.

Passing to the position of Col. Edgett on the tariff, Mr. Stevens strove laboriously to identify the Colonel with the Mackenzie King party because of his statement that he was out to defeat the government by any means, a quotation which drew applause from the veterans. His statements were productive of many interruptions, the effort to stick a Mackenzie King label on them being keenly disapproved by the returned men. Mr. Stevens held on, insisting that Col. Edgett's announced intention of voting for a want of confidence in the government would have the effect, if such a vote carried, of bringing Mackenzie King or Crerar into power and of thus nullifying his plank on protection of fruit.

The speaker countered assertions that the government did not adequately tax war profits and "big business," claiming that Canada now has the highest rate of income tax in the world on large incomes and the lowest on small incomes. A total of $165,000,000 had been paid in war profits tax since it was first imposed, and large sums had been received from luxury and sales taxes. A lot of this criticism had been fostered by antagonism to capital, which was unmerited in most cases, as capital was largely composed of aggregations of small investments, often funds of widows and orphans. For example, there were 142,000 shareholders in the C. P. R., many of them small investors. Direct taxation was now about as high as it could go.

Mr. Stevens went to considerable pains to assail the educational plank in Col. Edgett's platform. While agreeing that everything should be done to encourage educational facilities, he did not favor the Colonel's sweeping condemnation of the present system. He reiterated what had been said by other speakers, that the matter was solely one for provincial legislation, and declared that any one who had the audacity to propose interference by the Dominion with provincial prerogative in this respect would meet with political and possibly physical punishment.

He closed with an appeal to the voters to go to the poll as citizens of Canada, exercising their reason and judgment and marking their ballots accordingly.

Capt. Whittaker opened by saying he had been warned that he would encounter organized opposition at Kelowna. He was glad, nevertheless, to meet opposition, knowing that at the same time he would get fair play. He admitted that until 1917 he had been something of a Grit but had not taken any active interest in politics. He had gone into the present campaign without receiving any pay or other emoluments, because he felt it his duty to do so. He had not felt any spirit of opposition when he saw in the papers that Col. Edgett had been nominated as a Soldier-Farmer candidate, although he did not think there should be a Soldier party in politics. He was opposed to group government. The veterans could not disassociate themselves from those who could not go overseas but gave loyal service in Canada to the men at the front. Class or group government was not wise, and the only reason why he stood by the National Liberal-Conservative government was because it cut across all parties.

When Col. Edgett accepted endorsement by the Mackenzie King group of Liberals, the speaker started thinking of the days of 1917, when Mackenzie King found it better to live in the United States, monkeying over there with so-called social service instead of helping his own country. In the stringent times at the front, when things were in a critical state, Mackenzie King gambled with the lives of Canada's soldiers by opposing the means of reinforcing them and as long as God gave him breath, the Captain vowed he would oppose the Liberal leader and his following. If these men played such a rotten, dirty game in those days, would they not do so today? Hence, he was opposed to any soldier who was endorsed by Mackenzie King Liberals.

At this stage Col. Belson rose in the audience and denied that Col. Edgett had ever accepted endorsement by Mackenzie King or that he had any communication with him—an allegation made by Capt. Whittaker.

Capt. Whittaker maintained his assertion, reading from Col. Edgett's manifesto his statement that he had been endorsed by soldiers, farmers, labor and clericals, and he held that this meant acceptance of endorsement by all the groups mentioned.

The Captain's persistence aroused the ire of the veterans, and Mr. A. Gibb reminded him of a speech he had made on a previous visit to Kelowna when he urged unity, yet here he was trying to create disunion amongst the returned men.

This reference visibly nettled Capt. Whittaker, but he still carried on, trying to fasten the Liberal platform on Col. Edgett, because they had endorsed him. Col. Belson countered with a statement that the greater part of Col. Edgett's platform was taken from up at the Dominion Convention of the G. W. V. A., which Capt. Whittaker had attended as a delegate and had approved of the Declaration.

Capt. Whittaker went on to speak of the various positions he had held in the G. W. V. A., including the presidency of the Provincial Command, as giving him authority to speak on questions affecting soldiers. He lamented the divisions and creation of new organizations which had taken place amongst returned men, with the result that rival programmes were presented to the government, who were bewildered by this lack of union. He believed in the G. W. V. A. proposals, which were magnificent, but the other soldiers' organizations were jealous of the G. W. V. A., which they did not wish to see become the strongest power in Canada. If the soldiers of Canada were united and public opinion likewise, more of the soldiers' demands would be granted. He referred to the bad effects of the G. A. U. V. movement led by Harry Flynn, and instead of their policy of everlastingly damning the government, he believed there was a better way, of giving them credit for what they had done. He had yet to see any soldiers' association pass a vote of thanks to the government for what they had done, and the continual cussing of the government had the effect of making them tired of the soldiers' complaints. He advised the veterans to get together and send a delegation to the government to express their thanks for what the government had accomplished.

He wanted to see the pensions of widows and dependents raised so that they would have no fear of the future, and all thinking men were agreed upon this. The last budget provided $33,000,000 for pensions, which showed that an effort was being made to meet the case. He could not see how things could be bettered by offering opposition to a candidate who had done so much for the cause of the soldiers.

He attributed the high prices of today to lack of production and claimed that the government was making a worthy effort to grapple with the question of placing soldiers on the land. There had been grievances at times, but efforts were being made continually to improve the carrying out of this policy. The statistics of land settlement work, some of which he gave, showed that the government had done something towards re-establishment. Vocational training had fallen down to some extent, partly because of the government's fault and partly because of the men's fault, as some of the men did not follow it up but abandoned it and took up other occupations, hence the government was not altogether to blame.

He compared the candidates in this election, praising Mr. MacKelvie unreservedly. Thirty-one years in the Okanagan, his age prevented him from going military service but he had rendered splendid service in other respects, for example his editorial work on soldiers. In early days he had worked for wages as other men had worked, but he had looked into the future of the country and had vision and foresight, and later in his paper he had fought for the interests of the valley and had striven for the present tariff on fruit. Against this, the other candidate, who no doubt was a good man, had only twelve months' residence in the district, which was his misfortune. The people required a man who knew the needs of the country. Self-interest, which was the very basis of life, demanded that they send to Ottawa a man who would stand foursquare for the district.

At the Montreal convention he had pled that they should ask the government to give the soldiers industries, and he had voted against the $2,000 bonus, as he thought the creation of industries a better plan to meet unrest. The government had responded by opening shipyards in the East, and at Vancouver and Prince Rupert. Mackenzie King had opposed this scheme in the House, and the speaker accused him of saying nothing as to doing anything for the soldiers. The man who was loyal to the present administration was the man who could get something for his constituency.

Replying to calls for a statement on the Ross rifle, the Captain said it was a dirty failure. In the early days of the war there was a man in power who saw in the Ross rifle everything that was perfect and had defended it against the criticisms of the commanders of the British forces, but the government had finally got at the facts and had done away with it. He gave the government credit for doing what was right when they knew the facts.

Some interruption ensued, various veterans taking issue with Capt. Whittaker as to the date when the Ross rifle was discarded by the government. He gave 1916 as the date, while others stated it was 1917.

Col. Belson said the government knew the facts as early as the second battle of Ypres in the spring of 1915, at which time was Gen. Alderson was dismissed from his divisional command because he reported adversely on the weapon, but the government was afraid to dismiss Sam Hughes, who was responsible. That was the curse of partyism.

Nettled at his heckling, Capt. Whittaker said, somewhat irrelevantly, that he wanted Canada to know that there were some soldiers in the country today who were not in favor of Mackenzie King. Resuming, he spoke of the Oliver equipment, which was objectionable all right, but it took time to replace it with the proper equipment, and the government eventually scrapped it. The government did not deny they had made mistakes, and he appreciated them for their leaders or soldiers who were assisting MacKelvie, who were just as loyal comrades and as patriotic as Edgett's supporters. He denied that the Premier had said that he had washed his hands of the soldiers; on the other hand, the Premier had stated that the door was always open. He concluded by hoping that they would vote for Mr. MacKelvie on November 22.

Questions, having been invited, a flood poured upon the Captain. Referring to the door not being closed, Mr. J. J. Atherton quoted an item in the "Province" of Nov. 17, stating that, apart from the care of seriously disabled men, the position of the government was that returned soldiers in future would have to fend for themselves and were to be treated as having been absorbed into civil life.

Capt. Whittaker retorted that press statements were not to be taken as the statements of the Premier.

Col. Belson returned to the fray regarding the G. W. V. A. Declaration of Principles, and Capt. Whittaker denied that Col. Edgett's platform was identical with that statement, asserting that it contained some of the clauses but not others.

Col. Belson: "Such as the plank on the tariff on fruit, which was added at Penticton."

Capt. Whittaker said that the Declaration of Principles was all the more reason why Col. Edgett should not go into politics. The best work of the G. W. V. A. was done away from politics.

With some heat, Col. Belson declared that he would warrant that there was not a veteran in that room who had any use for Mackenzie King. Speaking for himself, he had voted against him. Col. Edgett had not asked for his endorsement, and if a Liberal candidate had been put in the field, the Colonel would still have run against him.

The verbal duel waxed hotter, Messrs. Craig, Whitehead and Matthews keeping the Captain busy. From the question of Col. Edgett's relations to the Mackenzie King party the fray swayed once more to the Ross rifle. Capt. Whittaker said he was opposed to any money being paid to Sir Charles Ross, but he asked, "you would not dishonor contracts made by the government?" To which a lady in the audience stirred the veterans to loud applause by replying: "Yes, if they cost men's lives."

Mr. Stevens came forward to assist his colleague. He admitted the criticism of the Ross rifle was just, but the question had precipitated a crisis between Sir Robert Borden and Sir Sam Hughes, and the latter had been removed from the government. The contract with the Ross Rifle Company was specific for a certain type of rifle and was bona fide, so that the government could not violate it.

Capt. Whittaker expressed his thanks to the audience for the hearing accorded him, and the meeting concluded with "God Save the King." Three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for Mr. MacKelvie, and the veterans, undaunted, replied with the same tribute, equally if not more vigorous, for Col. Edgett.

EAST KELOWNA

The initial effort of the East Kelowna Social Club, which took the form of a Whist Drive held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Young on Wednesday, Nov. 17, was declared a complete success by those attending, who numbered twenty-seven, and augurs well for the future success of the club.

Twenty games of whist were played, after which refreshments were served, followed by a few impromptu items contributed by Mrs. A. R. Allport, Mr. A. H. Shaw, Mr. J. E. Young and Master Jack Young. Mr. Shaw being especially successful with two recitations given in his own inimitable style.

Mrs. A. R. Allport carried off the first prize for the ladies, whilst E. B. Powell was similarly successful for the gentlemen's trophy.

Mr. A. H. Shaw was the happy recipient of a lemon for his skill at card playing and Mrs. E. B. Powell with him for low representative of the opposite sex. The pleasant evening terminated at midnight with a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Young for their courtesy in thus assisting the efforts of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Smallman are expected to take up their residence on the Lower Bench, early in the New Year, having recently purchased the combined orchards of Mr. J. S. Griffin and Mr. M. V. Griffin. Mr. M. V. Griffin intends settling at Duncan, Vancouver Island, where he purchased last month 190 acres, intending to go in for stock and dairying on a large scale.

A new arrival is announced at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Perry. Both mother and son are progressing favorably.

Extemporaneous debate and music will form the programme of the Social Club on Tuesday, Nov. 30. Hour, 7:30 p.m.

Mr. J. W. Jones, M.P.P., addressed a representative gathering of East Kelowna residents on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 4 p.m. The principal issues of the campaign were dwelt on at length by the speaker, who gave a comprehensive explanation of the work of the government during the past four years, and also the platform of the Conservative party in the campaign. The speaker was accorded an ovation on concluding. Such questions as were put to him were handled by him in first-class style, the feature of his address being the absence of personal remarks, which one is apt to find on such occasions.

The Social Club met in the school house on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m., when Mr. E. B. Powell gave a very interesting paper on fruit growing as seen by him at Wenatchee. Considerable discussion followed, concluded by a vote of thanks to the speaker.

The December programme of the Social Club has been laid out as follows: Tuesday, Dec. 7, Whist Drive; Tuesday, Dec. 14, To be arranged by Mr. T. L. Gillespie; Tuesday, Dec. 21, Children's Christmas Tree; Friday, Dec. 31, New Year's Eve Dance. The programme for the early months of 1921 will be published later.

With this money, the Municipality will be in a position to complete all the works authorized under the recent by-law.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR*THE GUINON APPLICATION TO THE LAND SETTLEMENT BOARD

Editor, Kelowna Courier.

Sir,—During the present election campaign many misstatements are being made regarding the operation of the Land Settlement Board and my connection therewith. I want to say that I have nothing to conceal regarding my actions whilst a member of that Board.

As a specimen of the kind of statements which are being made is one in a recent issue of the Vancouver Province where, in an account of a political meeting held at Penticton, Mr. W. A. McKenzie, M.L.A., the Conservative candidate, is reported as "making a further charge against Mr. F. R. E. DeHart, formerly of the Land Settlement Board." He quoted from a letter he had received from a Mr. T. J. Guinon, who said that "when he was contemplating the purchase of a ranch near Princeton he had approached Mr. DeHart to ascertain if the government would loan him $4,000 to assist him in developing it; this was refused. Several weeks later Mr. Morrison bought the property for $6,400 and the government immediately, through the same Board which had refused Mr. Guinon a loan, advanced the sum of $10,000 to Mr. Morrison."

The utter falsity of this statement can easily be shown. Mr. Guinon never applied to the Land Settlement Board for a loan of any kind at any time. What he did do was to enquire from me if he would be able to get $4,000 from the government to purchase (not to develop) the property. He stated he was renting a place near by and had some cattle, a few horses and about $300, and thought that he could buy the property for $4,000 but found out later the price was $6,400.

I replied by sending him a copy of the Land Settlement Board's booklet, pointing out the clauses dealing with the case. I showed him that the Board could not advance more than sixty per cent of the value of a property offered as security (he was asking for what he considered the full purchase price), and further explained to him the policy of the Board in making loans, calling his attention to different parts of the act.

Mr. Guinon replied to this on March 15, 1918, as follows: "I have to thank you for your letter of the 9th inst. In view of its contents I feel that I owe you an apology, and regret that I did not more carefully study your Board's booklet before rushing into letter writing. It is now perfectly clear to me that my request is, as you say, impossible." He closes with: "Again thanking you for the courtesy and trouble you have taken in putting me right. I am, very truly yours, T. J. Guinon."

Mr. Morrison some time later and after selling the Simpson ranch bought this property, and later applied for a loan. When the property was appraised it had about 100 acres broken up and in crop besides other improvements. The 1919 crop realized over $10,000 besides wintering a large number of horses and cattle. Previous to 1918 this property never produced anything but range. It will thus be seen that the returns fully justify the loan made by the Board.

I am, very respectfully yours,
F. R. E. DeHART.
Kelowna, B. C., Nov. 23, 1920.

THE WINTER FRUIT SUPPLY

(Experimental Farms Note)

With the exception of apples, pears and grapes there are no fruits of our own production which can be called winter fruits, but of these three sorts every householder may have an abundant supply in good condition until at least the middle of winter.

Three prime requisites are necessary to keep in mind when laying in a supply of fruit for winter. The first is the selection of the proper variety or varieties; the second is the selection of only firm fruits, free from bruises and disease or insect injury; and the third is proper conditions of storage.

With regard to the first, the following is a list of winter varieties of apples, pears and grapes which, when free from disease and injury and stored under proper conditions, will keep anywhere from January up to May.

Well-known Winter Varieties of Apples of Good Quality:

Variety	Season
McIntosh	Nov. to Jan.
Fameuse	Oct. to Jan. 1
Rhode Is. Greening	Dec. to Feb.
King of Tompkins	Nov. to Feb.
Wagner	Nov. to Feb.
Northern Spy	Jan. to May
Golden Russet	Jan. to May

The above varieties are all good and cover the entire winter season if proper selection is made.

Among Pears the Following Are Desirable for Winter Use:

Josephine	Midwinter
Kieffer	October to January (rather poor quality)
Lawrence	December
Winter Nelis	Midwinter

Grapes—Normally the grape is not a winter fruit, but, stored under good conditions, the few varieties mentioned here may be successfully kept until the last of February: Herbert, Barry, Vergennes, Agawan, Lindley. Storing—in the storing of all fruits a cold, moderately moist room is necessary. Fruit stored in a dry, warm cellar will not keep. Storing at as near freezing as possible, without allowing the temperature to drop to 32° F., will insure the maximum time for the retention of the quality of the product.

By wrapping apples and pears in paper and then placing in boxes which are covered, the juiciness and firmness of the fruit is easier to retain. This is especially true of the Golden Russet, one of the best keeping apples but one liable to shrivel if kept in any place but a cold, moist cellar. Wrapping is a great help in keeping Russets.

Grapes should be wrapped in paper and stored in six-quart baskets which should be covered. If the grapes can be obtained with a large piece of vine attached to the bunch and a few leaves before they are killed by frost, the cut end of the vine may be inserted in a bottle of water through a hole in a stopper and placed away in a cold place. In this manner the fresh sprightliness may be retained for many months.

M. B. DAVIS,
Pomologist.EQUAL TO THE OCCASION

The occasion was a little dinner-party. Mr. Wyn-Jenkins was carving a fowl. It was older than it looked, and, the knife refusing to do its bit, the bird shot into the silken lap of the principal guest.

Mrs. Wyn-Jenkins went pale, but her husband retained his presence of mind.

"I believe," he said to the guest as he recaptured the bird, "I've helped you too much. Allow me to take back a little."

BLANKETS AND BLANKETING

(Experimental Farms Note)

In summer and while at work horses do not require blanketing because they are usually warm enough. However, we are now approaching the time of the year when blanketing will, under certain conditions, become necessary. Young or idle horses that are gradually accustomed to the change from field to stable conditions do not require any blanketing, as their coats become heavier as the temperature goes lower. It is the horse that is at work in all kinds of weather, in one day and out the next, that requires close attention. When a horse comes in wet from perspiration or rain he should be dried off as much and as quickly as possible. If soaking wet a scraper may be used, this to be followed by a brisk rub with a wisp of hay. The horse should then be blanketed until such time as his coat becomes dry again.

The advisability of blanketing the working horse continually throughout the winter, when not out at work, depends on conditions in the stable. Generally speaking, it is healthier to keep the stable cool enough to make a blanket necessary all the time, hot stables being very unhealthy. If the stable is warm at all times it will only be necessary to blanket the horse when it comes in warm. In the former case, too heavy blankets should not be used, for the horse will then feel the cold much worse and will require extra heavy blanketing if obliged to stand for any length of time outside.

When the horse is obliged to stand idle outdoors in cold weather for any length of time, it should be well blanketed. This is particularly true of clipped horses. Some horses are blanketed continually to keep them clean and to make their coats glossy. This is wrong practice for, in the first place, the dirt in a horse's coat originates for the most part in his skin hence the blanket cannot keep it out; in the second place the blanket does not make a true gloss on the coat but only a temporary one which is so lost when the horse goes out in the cold. Liberal use of the curry comb and brush are the best means of obtaining a clean and glossy coat.

In the case of cattle, blanketing is not of so much importance as the animals are not subject to so many changes. If, however, any animals, and particularly milk cows, are being transported from one place to another in cold weather they should be properly blanketed. If being moved on foot and they have become heated up they should be blanketed until they become cooled off again. Once established in a stable it is rarely so cold that a blanket is necessary at all times. In the case of cattle, washing and then blanketing heavily for a short time is often practised to obtain a soft glossy coat for exhibition purposes.

In practically all cases of sickness in the above classes of animals blanketing is to be recommended, the idea being not to keep the animals unduly warm but to keep them warm and at the same time be able to provide plenty of pure fresh air. This is particularly true in cases of pneumonia or other lung trouble. When an animal is seen standing trembling and with its back up it is safe to throw a blanket or two over it as the first remedial measure. Often a good warming up at this stage will check worse sickness.

The best blankets are made of cotton or canvas with wool or flannel linings. The wool and flannel serve to absorb the moisture and thus help to dry out the animal's coat besides being warmer in winter than the all cotton blanket. A light water-proofed canvas blanket with little or no lining is serviceable for outdoor use in wet weather. All blankets should have good strong fasteners, for very often an otherwise good blanket is ruined through becoming unfastened, trampled upon and torn. A good strap and buckle at the breast is a necessity, the same being fastened to the blanket in such a way that the strain is exerted on a considerable portion of the blanket and not just in one small spot, for in the latter case the fastener will soon pull off. With the blanket a surcingle is generally used. This should be fairly wide and padded on either side of the spine to relieve the pressure on the latter. In some cases also it will be found necessary to use thigh straps, these being fastened to the rear of the blanket about the height of the breeching and passed around the inside of the thigh and fastened to the blanket again at the flank. It is advisable to have these straps fairly loose to allow a little play or they will be easily broken.

As most blankets are rather expensive they should be given a little care. After using on a sweating horse or when damp from other cause see that they are aired and dried at the first opportunity. At the end of the season they should be soaked and then washed, thoroughly dried, and packed away in a box with cedar or moth balls.

GEO. W. MUIR,
Animal Husbandman.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTION

Editor, Kelowna Courier.
Sir,—At a time when elections are in all men's minds, and when the harassed voter is offered, as political bread, the stone of Conservative misdoings, and Liberal iniquities, it may be of some interest, perhaps of some assistance to those, and there must be many, who like the writer, see one fact standing out clear from the sea of talk, of advice, and of conflicting opinions, that is the unfitness through lack of knowledge, lack of time and opportunity for study and observation, of most of us, to contribute anything to the wealth of informed and independent opinion, on the various problems before the province, to reflect that there is one thing we can all do, a thing which requires no special training, or knowledge, which is almost instinctive, and that is to assess the value of the character and personality of our fellow-beings. We do this in all the affairs of life as a matter of course, and depend on our faculties for doing it, in most crises. If our near and dear to us lies on a bed of sickness, we use this faculty in choosing the doctor best fitted to fight the disease. We are not competent to judge of his actual technical skill, but what we can and do do is to assess his general character and say, "That man is a man to be relied on, a man of honesty, courage and resource, and therefore one who would carry out efficiently whatsoever he undertook to do."

And so with politics—just as our ignorance of law or of medicine prompts us to leave our legal affairs or our treatment of illness to those specially trained to deal with these matters, so let us, instead of shouting other people's ideas and opinions as our own be content to leave them to the expert and concentrate our efforts on choosing the right man. For, after all, in a young undeveloped country the difference between parties is really more one of method and of degree than of principle.

What then must we look for in our candidate? We do not want the fiery eloquence of a John Bright, it is not the speaker so much as the quiet worker in the committee-room that will bring progress and clean administration to this province.

We must have absolute honesty and integrity, we must have knowledge and experience of public affairs, and we should surely have one who has already proved himself to be fitted for such public service. We have a candidate who has so proved himself, not by eloquent speeches, not by grand promises for the future, but by successful and efficient work in the past, by valuable critical work in the House and before that by years of disinterested public service to this community, and all the time, whether as member or as mayor, by charitable and sympathetic help to anyone who needed it.

We have heard a good bit of the debt owing to the man who went overseas by those who stayed behind; how about the debt the men who went overseas owe to those who stayed behind, or at all events some of them? There were those who gave ungrudgingly of their time, their energy and experience of life, and of their substance, to helping the wives and children of those who were overseas; not only in the enthusiastic months at the beginning of the war, but through all the long dreary years of that dreadful time. No pomp and circumstance about that service, and very little thanks that ever I could see, and one of the surest tributes to the disinterested and unselfish nature of that service is the way it has been allowed to sink into oblivion.

Second, to none in that service was J. W. Jones, M.P.P., and long may he have the right to subscribe himself as such!

Yours truly,

C. C. FULLER.

WOODS LAKE

Owing to needs of publication, these notes will be sent in on Mondays in future, so that they may be behind time occasionally.

Fire destroyed Mr. Petrie's barn last Tuesday evening with practically all its contents. The cause of the outbreak was probably the explosion of a lamp left hanging a few minutes while Mr. Petrie was bringing in his cows. As soon as the fire was noticed, neighbors hurried to assist but nothing could be done except protect the house and other outbuildings. Fortunately the wind was blowing from the south or much more damage might have resulted. Part of the loss is covered by insurance.

Mr. Rogers will hold his meeting here on Tuesday evening in the school house at 8 o'clock, when it is hoped a good attendance will turn out.

Polling takes place in the Dominion by-election today (Monday) at Mr. Claggett's house. People have been asking one another where the polling was to be held, but nobody seemed to know.

A meeting of day and Sunday school teachers and others was held on Friday at Mrs. R. Berry's home to discuss arrangements for the children's Christmas entertainment. During the week they had spent considerable time collecting funds throughout the district. The very satisfactory total of $70 was obtained. The programme, which promises to be unusually good, and presents were arranged for.

Mrs. Adams, of Kelowna, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Powley.

(Crowded out last week.)

Mr. and Mrs. Joslyn gave a party at their home last Wednesday night, when a number of friends enjoyed dancing and cards. Mrs. Joslyn and family will shortly leave to spend the winter in Vernon, while Mr. Joslyn "batches" at the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards and family are living temporarily in the house recently vacated by the Hulburts and not in Mr. Lidstone's house as stated last week.

Ray Lidstone has rented Mr. Harvey's place for next year.

Mr. Chapman has begun building his house, Mr. Claggett assisting him.

A very good congregation turned out to hear Mr. Cassidy last Sunday. During the meeting it was unanimously decided to continue the Methodist services at Woods Lake and a committee was formed, with Mr. McDonagh as secretary and Mrs. S. Jones as chairman, to further the interests of the Sunday School and Methodist services.

Mr. Rogers, the Liberal candidate, was through here last Thursday on business connected with the provincial election on December 1. He hopes to address meetings in this district next week, when voters will have an opportunity of hearing his statement of the government case.

It has been decided to hold a pruning class again and as last year, Mr. Evans has consented to conduct the class. Anyone interested can join the class.

Readers will be interested to know of an experimental shipping of fresh, semi-ripe Elberta peaches to England in September. The fruit was carefully packed in an air-tight container and reached its destination in about three weeks. When opened up, the peaches were found to be in perfect condition except that they were not quite ripe enough! The writer's relations, to whom the peaches were sent, were duly impressed with the quality and size attained by Okanagan fruit. Cherries have been shipped to England successfully, but this is the only instance of such perishable fruit as the peach arriving safely, that we have heard of.

THE EXCHANGE RATE

III.—What Controls It?

IN No. II. of this series we explained why foreign dollars in a banker's hands are merely an evidence of indebtedness, a commodity to be bought or sold.

In order to make use of the credit these represent, he must first exchange them for the currency of his own country and this he does by sending them to a bank in the country in which they were issued. This means not only the labor of counting and sealing the parcel, but the cost of postage and the premium for insuring it against loss on the way.

The Bank to which he sends it must either remit payment for the foreign dollars in gold (the intrinsic value of pure gold being equal in all countries) paying express charges and insurance on the parcel, or if the bank has a credit balance in the country from which the foreign dollars came, it may give a cheque against that balance to the sending banker.

It was to avoid this cumbersome, risky and unsatisfactory way of settling international debts by the transfer of gold that the system of Bills of Exchange was brought into use, and we will try to explain that system next week.

WESTBANK

(Crowded out last week.)

Life these days is just one political meeting after another, with an occasional social affair included for good measure. On Friday afternoon, Nov. 12, Mr. J. A. MacKellie made an able presentation of the case in support of the government and himself. He was ably supported by Rev. F. B. Stacey, M.P. for Chilliwack, and Capt. Whittaker, whose message was particularly to the returned soldier. If one may hazard a guess, it looks like MacKellie for Ottawa.

A most enjoyable visit drive was staged in the School House on Friday evening by Mrs. Masson Russell, in aid of the Library fund. The affair was entirely successful, and Mrs. Russell is to be complimented for her untiring efforts in connection with library matters.

On Saturday afternoon we had Col. Edgett with us, a representative audience being on hand to hear his arguments.

On Monday evening the Provincial Liberal candidate, Mr. L. V. Rogers, made an interesting address to a large turnout of electors, including a notable number of the lady voters. Confidence is said to be half the battle, and Mr. Rogers seems confident of the outcome of the election.

On Wednesday evening our struggling United Farmer local held a meeting in the school house. Something or other this movement is not very strongly supported by West-bankers.

Did someone say life in the country was dull and uneventful?

Mrs. H. B. Ewer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Simmerman, of Bellingham, Wash., paid their daughter a short visit last week, leaving for the Coast on Saturday morning.

Miss Edwina Paynter left on Wednesday last for a short visit in Calgary, Alta.

A gang of the younger lads noisily commemorated Armistice Day by a parade and tin can band concert during the evening. Our amateur Sherlock Holmes is working overtime trying to discover the name of the lady who led the procession, rumor having it that one fond mother couldn't resist the impulse to act young again, "just for tonight". Any information will be gladly received by the "detective", who is losing his standing at school because of the neglect of lessons entailed by his "case".

An indication of how the closing of the smelter has affected the population of Grand Forks is afforded by the fact that there are only 513 names on the Provincial Voters' List for the city.

G.W.V.A. NOTES

The Ladies' Auxiliary are holding a Progressive Whist Drive on Thursday, December 2, for which handsome prizes have been donated.

Next Saturday, the 27th, our usual meeting will start at 8 p.m. Mr. Jones, M.L.A., wishes to address the members at 9 p.m. on provincial issues, and Mr. Rogers, the Liberal candidate, will speak at 9:30.

The outstanding result of the Yale by-election was the large number of electors who were not sufficiently interested in the government of their country to vote. It merely bears out Sir Arthur Currie's remarks as to the necessity for better education on citizenship. This also is strongly supported by the G. W. V. A. This ignorance or indifference is not confined to any one section of the community. It is found just as prevalent amongst people who are supposed to be well educated. The election is also notable for the fact that all the straight farming districts gave the Soldier-Farmer candidate a majority and it was the fruit growers, alarmed by the tariff issue, that supported the government candidate. The East Elgin result at all events shows what will happen in Ontario when the general election comes, and it apparently will not be long before Mr. MacKellie will have to fight again and the imported speakers on his behalf will be kept pretty busy elsewhere.

Capt. Whittaker at the meeting last Saturday, professing to deplore the dissension amongst veterans, did his best to accentuate it and his paltry excuse that he was only opposing the soldier candidate because the Liberals chose to endorse him was taken for what it was worth.

At the present time Canada is depending entirely for military defence on the ex-members of the C. E. F. The permanent and active militia exists on paper only. It is a safe bet that the rank and file of the C. E. F., if asked to serve again, would only do so under those officers who have played the game since demobilization and have helped in the care of the widows, dependents and disabled and the problems of re-establishment.

As far as the veterans of Kelowna are concerned they apparently provided a surprise for the government party.

Provincial Items

The fruit shipments from Salmon Arm will total about 100 cars this season.

The members of Knox Presbyterian church choir at Grand Forks wear surplices during service.

The Salmon Arm District Council has decided against abolition of the system within the municipality.

A remarkable crop of potatoes is reported from Westholme, Vancouver Island, where Mr. Alfred Richards secured from six acres no less than one hundred tons and five sacks. About two tons of this yield was under marketable size. The varieties grown were Eureka, Sir Walter Raleigh and Jones' White.

After being used in topographical survey of the country surrounding Shuswap Lake, a seaplane, of the Curtis model has recently been dismantled and shipped to the Coast. The plane has a wing spread of 70 feet and is propelled by a 300 h.p. Liberty motor. Its operations are stated to have been entirely successful, and it is likely that seaplanes will be generally used for work of the Forestry Branch next year in districts where lakes abound.

Provincial Elections, 1920

To the Electors of South Okanagan

Having been nominated once more as a candidate for this riding at the forthcoming General Provincial Election on December 1st, I am taking this means of laying before you a brief outline of some of the more important matters in which I hope to be of service to you if again elected as your representative. These points will be dealt with more fully at the different meetings being arranged throughout the constituency.

During the course of the past four years I have been able to accomplish many improvements in the district and to secure many concessions of a substantial nature, and this although a member of a small opposition, whose duties were necessarily more concerned with criticism. In the near future I hope to be in a position to serve you still more effectively.

Assuring you of my continued efforts on your behalf,
I remain,

Yours sincerely,

J. W. JONES, M.P.P.

1.—INCREASED GRANTS FOR SOLDIERS' HOUSING.

2.—EXCLUSION OF ORIENTALS.

It is necessary that further immigration of this kind be stopped entirely as the only means of keeping B. C. a white man's province.

3.—PREVENTION OF ORIENTAL OWNERSHIP OF LAND.

For the same reason it is of urgent importance that Orientals should be prevented from acquiring ownership of land, and thus crowding out the white farmer.

4.—A VIGOROUS ROAD BUILDING POLICY.

Good roads are a prime necessity to the progress and development of any agricultural community, and it is the duty of the government to use every means of providing them. Recent developments in motor haulage have created a need for much better roads than formerly, and in order to secure these quickly and efficiently, I would advocate the flotation of domestic loans to supplement the regular annual appropriations for road-building.

5.—CHEAP POWDER FOR LAND CLEARING.

6.—RURAL CREDITS TO DEVELOP AGRICULTURAL LANDS.

7.—REVISION OF TAXATION.

Taxes cannot be avoided if the national business is to be carried on, but they should be kept down to the minimum by rigorous economy and wise management, and, above all, the burden should be distributed fairly and equitably on all citizens. There is room for much reform in this regard, and I am in favor of a careful revision of the present system.

8.—A WISE AND EFFECTIVE MODERATION LAW.

I am in favor of an Act which will give the government absolute control, not only of sale within the province, but eventually of importation from without its boundaries, and containing regulations which will ensure real moderation in the use of liquor. The provisions of such an Act must be rigidly enforced.

9.—AID TO MUNICIPALITIES BY REFUNDING SHARE OF CERTAIN TAXES.

I believe that a system whereby the government would pool the returns from auto licenses and taxes, amusement tax, income tax, poll tax, personal property tax, and profits from the sale of liquor, placing them into a fund from which annual per capita grants could be made to aid municipalities, would be the best means of dealing with this problem.

10.—ESTABLISHMENT OF A NORMAL SCHOOL IN THE INTERIOR.

Children of farmers and residents of interior cities are at present handicapped in the pursuit of the higher branches of education, and in entering the teaching profession, by the necessity of a residence at the coast. The growth of population now warrants the provision of a normal school in the interior.

11.—GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL OF STORAGE RESERVOIRS AND MAIN CANALS OF IRRIGATION SYSTEMS.

The provision of a cheap and adequate water supply is a prime necessity to the whole of the dry belt of the province, and it is a legitimate demand that the resources of the government be used to properly develop this great natural wealth. In order to prevent the burden of maintenance from falling too heavily on the individual farmer, I am in favor of government ownership and control of the water supply.

12.—ASSISTANCE TO HYDRO-ELECTRIC PROJECTS.

By this means the benefits and advantages of cheap electric light and power might be made available over a wide area and especially in agricultural districts. In this district such a project would make possible the irrigation of the higher bench lands by means of electric pumps, where gravity systems are not feasible.

13.—ASSISTANCE TOWARDS THE ESTABLISHMENT OF COLD STORAGE PLANTS AT CERTAIN POINTS IN THE PROVINCE.

14.—EDUCATIONAL TEST FOR FOREIGN IMMIGRANTS.

15.—AN AGGRESSIVE AGRICULTURAL AND IMMIGRATION POLICY.

Thousands of fertile acres in our districts are awaiting the arrival of the right kind of settlers, especially those of British origin, and with means of making a good showing in the agricultural development of the country. It should be the purpose of the government to adopt an effective means of encouraging this kind of settlement, and also to afford necessary help and advice to the inexperienced. A vigorous agricultural policy is greatly needed at this stage of the country's development.

16.—GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES FOR SOUTH OKANAGAN.

The riding of South Okanagan is sufficiently strong to stand upon its own feet in this respect, and much greater convenience and efficiency would result from the establishment of the proper offices for the administration of government matters within its own borders.

Acting under instructions, the undersigned will sell by

BOY SCOUTS' COLUMN

Troop First Self Last!

Edited by "Pioneer."

November 23, 1920.

Orders by command for week ending December 2, 1920.

Duties: Orderly patrol for week, Eagles; next for duty, Otters.

Parades: Unless special notice is given to the members of a patrol by its leader there will be no separate patrol meetings during this week, on account of the Troop holding its first parade of the season in its new quarters on Friday, December 3, 1920, at 7:15 p.m.

This Troop parade will be in full uniform and the investiture ceremony will be held at which all recruits who have passed their Tenderfoot tests will make their promise and be enrolled. It is necessary therefore that they should secure a complete uniform by that date. The orderly patrol for the week will always see that the fires have been lighted in sufficient time before a Troop parade.

The Eagles and Cougars have respectively secured the quarters for their patrol meetings on Tuesday and Friday of the present week, and we must mention here that the Troop owes a hearty vote of thanks to A.S.M. Parkinson and P.L. Mantle for their hard afternoon's work on Saturday last, when they cleaned up the quarters and made them ready for use. They put up the two stoves and piping, transferred our book-shelf from the Salvation Army hall with all the books, and also transferred the book cases given to us by the Farmers' Institute. We appreciate very much the gift of these latter book cases and also the books which accompanied them as well. We wish also to thank Mr. Rowcliffe for the loan of a stove and piping, without which we could not, of course, make much use of our new home. The Eagles and Cougars will take their supplies of wood to the quarters at their patrol meetings to be held there and the other patrols will please make arrangements to get theirs there as soon as possible.

The bass drum has arrived and will be on hand at the Bugle Band practice this week. It seems hard that so much money should be wrapped up in such a small parcel but it is a good one and should last a lifetime. The Bugle Band are expected to feature more at the Concert next year than they did this, so conscientious attendance at the practices and attention when there is very necessary.

Tests passed during the past week have been the Second Class Signaling and Ambulance by Scout C. Richards; the First Class Cooking before Miss A. Hunter by Second F. Latta and Scouts R. Todd and A. Geen; the Ambulance Badge by T.L. Groves, Second H. Mantle and Scout C. Cunningham before Dr. Bryce, and the Electrician Badge by the latter Scout before Mr. Claud James. We wish to thank our friends who have kindly taken these different tests: very much.

The First Class Cooking Test seems to be the popular one these days and those intending to try will please cut out and arm themselves with the requirements, which are that the Scout must be able to cook satisfactorily (over camp fire in the open if possible) two out of the following dishes (as may be directed): Porridge, bacon, hunter's stew; or skin and cook a rabbit; or pluck and cook a bird; also, make a "dampener" of half a pound of flour, or a "twist" baked in a thin stick.

During these winter months we will assume that the camp fire in the open is impossible, but that does not prevent any Scout using it instead of a stove indoors if he prefers and can find an examiner who can stand it.

We shall not be taking any recruits into the Troop until after Christmas and probably only about Wise Men Say—That we have a right to say what we think only when we are thinking that which it is right to say. Many thoughts are too warped by selfishness and unkindness to stand that test.

The new headmaster on his first day at the school had all the pupils gathered in the hall, where he delivered an address to them, in the course of which he remarked that he did not believe in canes. At this point he was interrupted by ringing cheers from his youthful audience. "A far better thing," he continued, beaming at them through his spectacles, "is a good stout strap of the best leather."

According to the "Vancouver Sun" of Nov. 18, Dominic Votchie, an Italian hailing from Kelowna, is a patient in the Vancouver General Hospital suffering from two knife wounds in the abdomen and one in the head, and Louis Andezo, of no fixed address, his alleged assailant, is held on a charge of attempted murder.

The home of Mrs. J. H. Harris, Glenn Avenue, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, at 5 o'clock, when Miss Irene Winnifred McGill was united in marriage to Mr. Hubert William Wilson. Rev. R. G. Edwards performed the ceremony. Only immediate friends were in attendance. Upon their return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will take up residence in Kelowna.

Many people seemed to have forgotten that there was an election on Monday last, so it may be as well to remind them that polling in the provincial general election takes place on Wednesday next, Dec. 1st, when those failing to vote will be struck off the Register of Voters. It is understood that the Kelowna poll will be held in the same premises as on Oct. 20, the McLaughlin show-room on Bernard Avenue.

The annual ball of the Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade last Thursday evening added another leaf to the wreath of laurels for such social functions which the Brigade wears by general consent of the community. The Morrison Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and an excellent floor and music that kept the feet restless together with an ample supply of refreshments, enticed a large crowd of dancers to keep up the fun until 3:30 a.m.

The Christmas Tree which is to be held for the children of returned soldiers is an object that is worthy of remembrance by those who delight in bringing happiness into the lives of the younger generation. Gifts in kind or donations for the purchase of presents will be gladly received by Mrs. J. J. Atherton at the G. W. V. A. Club, and subscriptions will also be received at the Courier Office. All donations will be acknowledged through the columns of this paper.

Through a collision which occurred at the corner of Lawrence Avenue and Pendozi Street, on Saturday night, between cars driven by Mr. G. H. Kerr, of Glenora, and Mr. G. G. Grant, Miss Walker, of the nursing staff of the Hospital, who was a passenger in Mr. Grant's car, received painful injuries about the body but fortunately no bones were broken and she is progressing favorably to recovery. Both cars received a considerable amount of damage, although it is understood they were not travelling fast at the time.

It will be glad news to the multitude of lovers of Gilbert and Sullivan's delightful operas to learn that the Kelowna Theatrical Society has decided to put on "The Yeomen of the Guard." Practice will be carried on during the winter and the opera will be produced as soon as the company is sufficiently proficient. Meantime, the Society wishes all newcomers possessed of musical talent to become members, so that the best material can be selected for the opera, which is one of the most difficult, if at the same time one of the most beautiful and tuneful of the works of the famous collaborators. Those intending to join should make a point to be present at the annual meeting of the Society on Dec. 7, as announced in another column.

time to the liquor question, other than to defend the holding of the referendum at a different time from the general election. The expenditure of $100,000 on the plebiscite had been described as extravagant, but he held that it was fully worth that sum to keep the liquor question out of politics and out of this campaign. All the candidates were in favor of a permit system for the sale of liquor, so there was no need to discuss it at length. The accusation had been made that the government had not kept their pledges to abolish political patronage, but he claimed he had been consistent in his opposition to patronage. Out of six road foremen appointed in South Okanagan, two had served under the Bowser government and one had stated that he voted against the speaker in 1916. A former resident of Rutland had been appointed Registrar of Voters for South Okanagan, although his politics were known to be in opposition to the government, but he received the appointment because he was a returned soldier. The Opposition had no cause, declared Mr. Rogers, to criticize the government on this score. He traversed the Opposition contention as to the cost of the civil service, pointing out that it had been necessary to raise salaries 30 per cent to meet the increased cost of living and new departments had been established and better service given to the public. He raised a laugh by saying there were other things told at the meeting held at Rutland by the other party, and in referring to them he was not going to reflect on Mr. Jones, as that gentleman had been travelling with Mr. Bowser so long that he and Mr. Bowser were the only two men in the province who believed what Bowser said. Taking as a sample the statement that the original estimate for the court house at Prince Rupert was $100,000 but that the government had spent $750,000, he said the McBride government had estimated the cost of the court house at from $700,000 to $1,000,000, and there had been spent on the site alone $135,128. The Oliver government estimated the cost of the building at $400,000 and nothing had been spent so far.

Coming nearer home, Mr. Rogers took up the matter of the purchase of the Christian ranch. The government were not satisfied with the bargain and had dismissed the civil servant who was responsible for it. If they had condoned his action, they would have been responsible. The Opposition members told that he had run from one office to another at Victoria to oppose the purchase, and if he came back here for another meeting he would tell them that he did not recommend the purchase of the Christian ranch because there was no water for it. As a matter of fact, Mr. Jones did not oppose the deal, in proof of which Mr. Rogers read the following telegram and letter:

(Telegram)

"Kelowna, March 6, 1919.
"J. W. Jones, M.L.A.,
Victoria, B. C.

"Important see Barrow at once. Conroy, Heron and Christian deal receives general endorsement by all classes as best returned soldier proposition in this district. Conroy price, forty; Heron, twenty; Christian, thirty-three. Understand deal going before executive tomorrow. See as many of Ministers as possible and get deal through.

"F. R. E. DeHART."

(Letter)

"Legislative Assembly,
Victoria, B. C.,
March 8, 1919.

"F. R. E. DeHart, Esq.,
Kelowna, B. C.
"Dear Sir—Your wire and also letter to hand re Ellison land deal. I have been pressing this matter ever since you were down, not only with the Land Settlement Board but also with Mr. Barrow; but all parties concerned seem to have decided that the only proposition they will purchase is the Christian place. I have pointed out that they will only accommodate three or four men this year, whereas they could put one or two dozen on the whole Ellison proposition if purchased. They seem to be afraid of spending so much money on this deal. Mr. Barrow claims that lands can be bought cheaper in the Fraser Valley, and seems to prefer that place to the up-country.

"He told me yesterday that he did not feel like recommending the purchase of the other ranches. I mentioned that they could not be held over indefinitely, that the matter would have to be decided since the farmers would have to soon go on the land and work. I am sorry that you were obliged to go home. It is unfortunate that you were not here while the deal was being discussed. I might say that Ritchie has been urging Kaleden on the government for returned soldiers. My own opinion on the matter is that Pattullo is doing his best to queer the whole proposition. You fully understand that, and Barrow has not sufficient power on the Executive to push his claims through.

"A delegation from Kelowna should be here at this time. The estimates will be presented next week, and if we are going to get anything for land, it will have to come up before they have passed the House. If there is anything further I can do I will be pleased to carry on.

Yours truly,

J. W. JONES.

"P.S.—I hear government will not touch Kaleden on account of water shortage."

Mr. Rogers drew a verbal picture of the worried representative running round with the sweat dripping from his brow, so busy was he trying to put through the deal for the Christian ranch, yet not one word in the letter about a shortage of water for it! Could they wonder that the government did not wish to accept the advice of a man whose recommendations had been the cause of their dismissing a civil servant?

Mr. Rogers also referred to the Guinon case at Princeton, an explanation of which is given by Mr. DeHart in a letter published in this issue, so, to avoid repetition, we omit Mr. Rogers' statement.

Dealing with other accusations, it had been charged that the government dismissed, on gaining power, old and valuable civil servants such as Mr. Wm. Young, Water Controller, but, as a matter of fact, that gentleman had held office for two years under the Liberals before he was let out, and they parted from him simply because he was not progressive or sympathetic with the new legislation enacted in regard to irrigation.

Much had been made of the alleged inadequate results of tax sales as compared with the cost of advertising them. It was necessary to advertise all the properties in arrears, and as there were many, naturally the cost was considerable, but the Opposition member did not state that in many cases, as the direct result of the advertising, the taxes were paid so as to avoid the property going to tax sale, and little land was actually sold at these sales. Another point which made the criticism ridiculous was that the cost of advertising was charged directly against the land and was paid by the persons who owned it.

He wanted to get on to something bigger than these petty charges. The Oliver government in the past four years had given the country more social legislation than the previous government in thirteen years. They would be told that they would have got all these enactments if the Bowser government had been returned to power, but Mrs. Ralph Smith could tell of repeated visits to Victoria at the head of deputations which had met with refusal time after time of their requests for such legislation from Bowser when he was in authority. He quoted a number of the beneficial pieces of human legislation placed upon the statutes by the Oliver government, such as establishing minimum wages for women and girls, juvenile courts, mothers' pensions and the Testator's Family Maintenance Act, which protected a wife and family against failure, either wilful or neglectful, of a husband to provide for them by his will. He asked if this in itself was not sufficient for the women of the province to vote for the Oliver administration?

Passing to the subject of irrigation, which, he said, was of paramount importance to the Okanagan, when it was considered what the government had done for the district in that regard, it would be suicide to vote against them. Machinery had been provided for forming water municipalities and a conservation fund of $2,000,000 had been set aside to provide loans. Under the former regime farmers were continually worrying as to shortage of water, but as soon as the Oliver administration took charge the problem was tackled and the Minister of Lands visited the Okanagan to ascertain what the people wanted. Committees were appointed in nearly every district, and the government was asked to get rid of the water companies and to form municipalities, with a conservation fund to help them to develop the systems. The government had met their wishes, and if the people voted against the government now they would seem to be refusing that for which they had asked. They took this attitude, they were a danger to the government, saying: "Let's stop this irrigation scheme, because the people do not want it." The people of Rutland had got assistance for irrigation from the government in spite of the opposition of the member for South Okanagan. He was not making any threat, but he asked them if they could dare to take the risk of being without water for their properties by saying that they did not want what they had asked for. If they thought they could sacrifice the present policy for a policy of free water, they were placing themselves in a very dangerous position. The Water Department had examined the scheme put forward by Mr. Jones of government ownership of reservoirs and main canals, and had not approved of it. If years later it could be shown that provincial ownership would be correct, the present policy would lead up to it by the shortest possible route without any interruption whatsoever. But if the people voted now against the government, it meant that they were enamored of the free water policy and wanted the present policy to cease.

Mr. Rogers quoted Mr. J. M. Sutherland, president of the Summerland Conservative Association, complaining to him that the speaker had read into Mr. Jones' policy free irrigation water, which Mr. Sutherland condemned as "impossible, ridiculous and unbusinesslike." This was before Mr. Jones had openly enunciated free water, as he was now doing. If the speaker was a farmer, nothing would please him better than to have free water, to have his cow milked free, his fruit picked free, but how were five or six representatives of the Dry Belt to convince all the other representatives in the Assembly, coming from the Wet Belt, that it was necessary to supply free water for irrigation? If free water for the Dry Belt was reasonable, it would be just as fair to take the water from the swamps in the Wet Belt and take the stumps from timbered land free, to dyke back the Fraser River free, and for all these activities the taxes would have to be multiplied three or four times, and the farmers would be paying for their water in the form of taxes instead of water rates.

The government policy was their policy; it was what they had asked for through their committees. Were the people of Rutland going to fall for the bait offered to them because of the word "free"? He asked them if they could not put in their systems as cheaply as the government, and if they were not willing to pay for water and to carry on the fruit industry of the Okanagan on a business basis? It would not be fair that a man who had provided himself with a good water system should be taxed for years for other people's systems. The government was not perfect, and Mr. Rogers expressed himself as not in accord with all their policy. He was opposed to certain things and was prepared to continue his opposition to them when he went down to the Assembly after the New Year. The road policy was not of the best, for instance. There was too much red tape about having necessary repairs approved, with reference from the local road foreman to the superintendent, then the road engineer and finally the Minister, and he could not see why the control of money for public works should be centralized at Victoria. At present there was too much facility for "passing the buck." Some people said it was a sign of weakness for the candidate to criticize the policy of the government, but the time for that sort of thing was past and he was not afraid to deal with such matters. He was not making big promises but was going to Victoria next year to support the general policy of the Oliver government, a government that had been in the interest of this district. He thanked the meeting for their attention, and hoped that on Dec. 1 Rutland would be on the list of places that would show appreciation of the efforts of the government to give honest legislation on behalf of the district and of the province as a whole. (Prolonged applause.)

In a short speech voicing the thanks of the meeting to the speakers, Mr. Guest referred to his own losses through shortage of water, losing three years' fine crops through the rotten dam erected by Mr. Jones' company. Last year, he had a crop of 128 acres of vegetables and fruit, estimated in June by experts to be worth $32,000. He got no water after the third week of July, and he sold the crop for $7,000. That was the kind of predicament the people were likely to be placed in, if the water policy was changed.

The meeting concluded with the singing of "God Save the King."

MANY LADIES HEAR MRS. RALPH SMITH

Sunday Meeting in the Empress Theatre Numbers Over Six Hundred

With pleasurable recollections of the previous visit of Mrs. Ralph Smith, the only woman member of the late Legislature, many ladies wended their way to the Empress Theatre last Sunday afternoon to hear an address by her on social questions and the "human" side of legislation, and they were joined by many who had not had the opportunity to listen to the woman leader. Fearing that the accommodation of the Theatre would prove insufficient, the promoters of the meeting billed it as for "Women Only," which unfortunately conveyed the impression that the subjects talked about were not for publication, hence The Courier made no attempt to report the proceedings. The precaution was warranted because the ladies themselves filled, nearly all the available space, and the attendance was estimated at about six hundred and fifty. The one lone man amidst this imposing assemblage of the gentle sex was His Worship the Mayor, who bravely conducted Mrs. Smith to the platform and then turned to flee, but was politely grabbed and given the privilege of being the sole male auditor. The Mayoress acted in a presiding capacity.

We understand that Mrs. Smith's remarks were somewhat along the order of the address she delivered last winter in Wesley Hall, and her plea for the weak, the mentally deficient, widows and orphans and deserted wives went home with keen force to the hearts of her hearers. At the close of her speech, Mrs. Smith was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of white flowers, the presentation being made by Miss Dorothy Leckie. She expressed her thanks in a few felicitous words, and thereafter she was surrounded by a crowd of ladies eager to talk with her and to express their keen appreciation and gratitude for her address.

During her visit, Mrs. Smith, who came up from Penticton by car and went north by the same means in order to fulfil an engagement at Salmon Arm, was the guest of Mr. D. Leckie and the Misses Leckie.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Mrs. G. Rowcliffe went to Vancouver on Thursday for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Lloyd and son left for England on Saturday.

Jack Mitchell, from the west side of the lake, was fined $50, with $2.50 costs, on Monday by Police Magistrate Weddell, for supplying intoxicating liquor to an Indian named Edward Manuel, who was mulcted $10 and $2.50 costs for drunkenness.

Friends of Miss Isolda Menges (Mrs. H. T. Boyd) will be interested in the following extract from the London "Observer" of Oct. 24, in a report of a Symphony Concert at Queen's Hall: "Miss Isolda Menges, played the Brahms' Concerto in D with the most beautiful tone and in very perfect style."
